VOLUME 27

The democrats of Ohio should take Judge Hoadly out of the race.

The leaders of the democrats seem to think that the best way to begin the campaign this year is to defame the character of the lamented Garfield.

The state has made a very damaging case against Frank James. But, then, what will that suffice when the jury is made up of James' special friends?

The president is getting tired of sightseeing and traveling, and wants to get back to Washington where he can again enjoy the luxuries of state. He has shown the country that he can catch trout and ride on a mule, and is satisfied.

Very pertinently put by the Chicago Times: The two young men who fought a duel near Vandalia, a day or two ago, must have been exceedingly awkward with the pistol. They killed each other at the first shot. Unless a higher degree of proficiency in the use of fire-arms is shown, dueling will not become popular in Illinois.

The latest intelligence from the volcanic disasters is more appalling than ever. Many towns have been engulfed by the tidal waves, or submerged by the mighty streams of burning lava. It is claimed that over 75,000 persons have perished. It was on Sunday noon when the greatest destruction was made by burning volcanoes. Red hot rocks were thrown high into the air and falling into the town of Spelvysk, set fire to the houses and burned a great portion of the place. Additional particulars of this terrible calamity will be found in our telegraphic column.

The sub-committee of the senate on labor and education is still in session in New York, hearing testimony. It is collecting a queer mass of material, and when the committee is through with its work it will have a mass of stuff on hand which will not be worth printing. It is, however, interesting to read some of the testimony. There are a few persons who go before the committee who talk common sense and give the committee some valuable facts and figures, but there are many who appear before it who have the wildest possible notions about labor and wages, and think the government should regulate both, especially discriminating against capitalists and manufacturers.

The State Journal says that the sale of refreshment stands on the state fair grounds aggregated $1,000 for the first day's sale. Of course, the receipts from these sources will be much greater than this sum before the sales are closed. Regarding the prospects at the coming fair, President Pratt says it will be the greatest success in the way of a fair Wisconsin has had for some time, and then he continues: "there will be acres and acres and acres of machinery. Why, I never saw anything like the number of applicants for ground upon which to make exhibitions of machinery which are being made. One can say with perfect truthfulness—and you cannot put it too strongly—that the Wisconsin state fair of this fall will be a magnificent exhibition."

ABOUT HIGH TARIFF AND LOW WAGES
Some of the democratic papers are trying to make their readers believe that a protective tariff makes low wages, and even the New York Herald prints this argument in favor of a low tariff that wages may be increased:

Under the low tariff he would get his raw materials cheaply and could therefore afford to pay higher wages. But with a high tariff his necessities force him to cut down wages or stop his works; and no doubt our correspondent, who lives in a great factory city, knows that machinery deteriorates very rapidly when it is not used, besides that it does not earn the interest on its cost. Hence the manufacturers for the most part prefer to lower the pay of their people and keep at work.

When the Herald or any other paper or any democratic statesmen, argue that a protective tariff makes low wages, they belie the experience of the past and attempt to crush the facts of the present. We notice that Mr. Robert P. Porter, has written a letter from Chemnitz, Germany, in which he gives some facts and figures regarding the industries of that country. He shows how it is that manufacturers in Germany can buy American cotton, carry it across the ocean, return and manufacture, pay the duty, and compete to the extent of $10,000,000 with our home industries. The operatives in Chemnitz work in prison-like structures and are not permitted to go out for twelve hours, and, until recently, they were not even allowed drinking-water. Their wages amount to about as many marks (about 25 cents) as American employers pay dollars. It is not pleasant to be told that even then the operatives of Chemnitz compare favorably with those of Manchester, England.

If a protective tariff lowers wages, why is it that under protection the United States mechanics and working men receive higher wages than the like classes in any other country in the world? If free trade, or a tariff for revenue only, which is one and the same thing, makes high wages, why is there so much pauper labor in all countries that have adopted free trade?

If the American system of protection degrades labor, why is it that the purchasing power of a day's wages is greater at the present time in this country, than was ever before known in its history?

If free trade is such a stimulator to good wages, why are so many hundreds of thousands leaving free trade countries and coming to America where protection is an important part of our present political system?

If free trade makes high wages, why is it that under every free trade period in this country wages were lowered and our industries more or less crippled?

THE MOUTH OF HELL

Seems to Have Yawned in the Island of Java,

And Vomited Death and Ruin Over all the Region;

Swallowed Ranges of Mountains, and Islands, and Sucked up the Waters—Seventy-Five Thousand Lives Lost—Account of the Appalling Calamity.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Further particulars of the great volcanic eruption in Java, which has just reached London from Batavia, show the disaster to have been even more widespread and more disastrous than reported previous advices. At noon Sunday the eruptions and shocks were supposed to have reached their greatest height. But late in the afternoon an evenging the violence of the disturbance suddenly increased, and the island seemed to be about to be completely buried in a mass of fire and sulphurous ashes. At the same time enormous waves began to dash with greater force upon the shores, coming in some places far up into the interior, and great fissures opened into the earth, and threatened to engulf a large proportion of the islands, people and buildings. About midnight of the whole disturbance took place. Suddenly an enormous luminous cloud, similar to that which was seen over the Gunung Gunter, but much greater in extent, formed over the Kaudang range of mountains, which skirt the southeast coast of the island. This cloud gradually increased in size until it formed a canopy of lurid red and white gray over a wide extent of territory. During this time the eruptions increased, and streams of lava poured incessantly down the sides of mountains into the valleys, sweeping everything before them. Here and there a stream of lava would enter an arm of the sea, or come in contact with the waters of a river, then the nearest incandescent lava, as it protruded from the great stream, would suddenly produce boiling heat and sizzling vapors, but the superficial consolidation that almost instantly ensued would prevent any further contact. The fissures that opened in the thin crust as it solidified would emit torments of vapor, extending high into the air, and making a tremendous noise.

THE MOST FRIGHTFUL SCENE

HISSING AND SEETHING SOUND, as if a thousand locomotives were simultaneously letting off steam. Here and there the lava streams were innumerable thin plate like crystals of feldspar, arranged in trains, one behind the other in the direction of the flow of the current, and folioscopic spherulites were rapidly formed in the vortuous manner, resembling those which form in the slag of a glass furnace. One of the most singular freaks of the eruption was the carrying in the middle of the molten lava of a bed of solid ice of enormous size, which had been emitted from one of the craters carried along by the current, and landed on the extremity of Point St. Nicholas on the northeast corner of the island. The bed of ice was surrounded by a thick envelope of sand and scoria, which are such nonconductors of heat that a red hot stream of lava running over it will not melt snow. It is supposed this ice had formed the crust of some of the factories have already begun to employ Bohemian workmen.

CINCINNATI DEMOCRACY.

Another Convention to be Called by the Dissatisfied Ones.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 30.—An adjourned meeting of Democrats dissatisfied with the organization of the late county convention, held a meeting and heard the report of the committee appointed to prepare a plan of action. The committee's report declared that the late convention was held contrary to the law and precedent, and that its work was fraudulent. The report outlined arrangements for calling a convention of one from each precinct in which the suit is brought by Mr. Stephenson, who alleges that the draft was fraudulent, was thus explained by Mr. Hastings to day: "The trouble is Mr. Murphy has lately been an altered man in mind. He has been afflicted to such a degree that his family have been concerned about him, and it was for that reason that I did not accept the draft and give him the money. His behavior has been such lately that his family have had some discussion as to whether a sane man could do as he done. There was no dishonesty or fraud about the draft, and I have property enough in my hands to pay it ten times over. Tom is one of the noblest and most generous fellows in the world, but his mind had been affected by the loss of his property. He is not the business man that he used to be. There is no danger of his arrest or imprisonment in this case, as he has plenty of friend who would see him through even if he had not property of his own to meet the draft."

A CHICAGO ELOPEMENT.

The Wife of a Traveling Man Runs Away with a Boarder.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Minnie L. Tanner, wife of Henry H. Tanner, a commercial traveler for John C. West & Co., 803 West Madison street, and residing on Powell street, near Milwaukee avenue, eloped on Monday with a man supposed to be a former boarder named Perkins. Mrs. Tanner is 28 years of age, and her husband 45. She is described as a woman who has always been "giddy." It is said she has of late frequented the Tivoli and other places of like character with a woman known as Emily Darst and several men, and for the past three months has endeavored to draw her husband's salary, about $50 weekly. When informed of this, Mr. Tanner, who has been away on a business trip for about four months, objected, and ordered that she be paid not over $20 a week. This incensed the wife, as she said she could not live on less than $50. Monday last she sold all the furniture, valued at $3,000, and decamped with a man who is described as sharp-featured, about 27 years of age, dark hair and mustache, and fashionably dressed, leaving her two children with her brother at Noblesville, Ind.

nals states that at least five hundred dollars more will soon be added. Only about one hundred and ninety dollars has been paid into our city treasury on this account, but if the ordinance should be enforced, as was intimated, when the city clerk commenced issuing dog licenses, that sum would soon be increased to seven or eight hundred dollars, or a corresponding number of worthless curs would be missing. As the matter now stands, the council will probably be called upon to refund the money already paid, as those who walked up and complied with the law, supposed there was no fooling in the matter, and that the ordinance would be tested. Now days a dog with a municipal tag attached to its collar, is shunned and seemingly despised by an ordinary police officer.

Judge John R. Bennett gives his friends a very entertaining and vivid description of the wonders of the Yellowstone. He is a close observer in his travels, and nothing of importance escapes him, so that in his conversations he describes the enchanting scenery of the great national park with an interest that is unflagging. While at the Yellowstone, he met Rufus Hatch and his company of foreign capitalists. When Judge Bennett was introduced to the great banker of New York, whose influence in a financial way was felt on both sides of the Atlantic during the civil war, he was pleased to hear that the judge was from Janesville. He said, "I was in Janesville in 1852, and in a small way helped to survey a railroad route from that place to Beloit, at least I carried the rear end of the chain." Uncle Rufus Hatch, for he is called "uncle" in New York, wanted the judge to remember him to some of the old settlers whom Mr. Hatch had not forgotten. Since then time and fortune have highly favored Rufus Hatch. He is a man of immense wealth, and wielded a powerful influence in the financial circles of the east. While wealth has been showered upon him, he has not lost his good nature and generosity, and never does he use his riches to promote questionable gain.

Perfect Success.

Those two words have a vast meaning when fully comprehended. A perfect success can be truthfully applied to Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which cures dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness, all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

It is a perfect tonic and blood purifier; it keeps the skin clear and bright; it drives away pimples and makes the general health excellent. Price 50 cents, or Stearns & Baker.

Gardner's Entertainment.

Mr. Charles A. Gardner received a magnificent greeting at the opera house last evening, and the audience departed with the words, "Long live Gardner."

The entertainment brought out the best powers of Mr. Gardner as a German dialect comedian. He is unquestionably one of the best in this country, being a true representative of the Fritz school. His dialect is not only of the very best, but he is a pleasing tender, an excellent dancer, an accomplished comedian, and by his eccentricities and inimitable specialties, kept the audience in continued laughter.

On Saturday evening Touy Denier's Humpty Dumpty troupe will give their first performance of the season at Myers opera house. This will be an important event to theatre-goers of Janesville. The performance will be full of good humor and wholesome fun, and course the house will be crowded.

Now that the telephone war in Oshkosh has been transferred to the courts, the boys are going to have some more fun. Here is what the Northwestern says: "The historic telephone pole cut down by Mayor Pratt, has been cut up into pieces, three of which are doing service as hitching posts in front of Bell & Cole's factory. The rest of the pole is to be cut up into canes to be presented to the mayor and common council."

Mr. Herman Buchholz has just completed one of the handsomest carriages ever seen in this city. It was built to order at Mr. Buchholz's shop, for Messrs. Hess & Schmidt of Madison, who have just opened a new livery stable in that city. This new vehicle is a real beauty in its line, and all the parts are made and finished in first class style. The carriage will be sent to Madison, overland, to-morrow morning, and will be used in carrying visitors to and from the state fair grounds.

Testimony from the Press.

To those affected with lung trouble, bear what W. D. Wilson, of the Ottawa (Ill.) Times says: "After being disabled for three months with a cough, and lung trouble, often spitting up blood, can testify that I am cured permanently by the use of Dr. Bigelow's Positive Cure." A free trial bottle can be had at Sterns & Baker's drug store.

A quiet wedding took place last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Atwood, in the first ward. Mr. Herbert Robinson and Miss Almina Andrews were joined heart and hand by Rev. Dr. M. G. Hodges of the Baptist church. The groom is a tinsmith, employed in Messrs. Kimball & Lowell's hardware store, and as he kept right on about his work as though nothing had occurred, is entitled to double congratulations from his many friends.

The produce buyers in Beloit occasionally have a lively time, when they hear of a granger approaching that town with nothing to sell. The other day a farmer appeared on the streets with ten bushels of oats for sale, and the whole town was thrown into excitement. The Free Press thus describes the feeling on the board of trade when the oats were reported on the market: "The board of trade meeting this forenoon was quite exciting. Martin had got on track of ten bushels of old oats, and Smith and Johnson made desperate efforts to make him disclose the whereabouts of the granger. Miller was full of excitement with the discovery made, yesterday by Harry Adams of the existence of a few hogs in the town of Newark, and his knife got away with a whole broom handle, and a part of the chair. Smith was energetically holding down."

A DAILY TIME.

CERTAINLY NO EXCURSIONS ANNOUNCED FOR THE SEASON EQUAL TO THE B. & O. SPECIAL SERIES. SOME IDEA OF WHAT BALTIMORE WILL DO.

There appears to be almost no end to the novelties being perfected for the Oriole festivities in Baltimore in September. It will truly be an termed, a Summer night's carnival, and certainly nothing like it was ever before attempted in any city of the continent. There will be electricity in all its forms, arc lights and incandescent lights, tons lights and flame torches, banners in various colors, Greek fire, calcium and gunpowder until night will be turned into day. The pyrotechnic features will be on a scale of great extent and variety, some of the set pieces promising to be marvelous in effect. The whole city will be lighted as never before. The different monuments will be girded with electrical bands, while the lofty and majestic dome of the city hall will be fairly ablaze. Every avenue leading to novelty in illumination is eagerly sought after, and old Baltimore will indeed show herself this year. The night display in the harbor will be a gorgeous sight; and the arrival of Lord Baltimore something to remember for years. The mystic pageant on the third night will be beyond all comparison excel anything of the description ever attempted not alone in this country but in any country. Other cities are content with from eighteen to twenty-two floats, the latter number being the greatest ever embraced within one pageant in any city. Baltimore almost doubles this, as her pageant on the night of the 13th of September will include no less than forty floats or tableau cars, larger, more imposing and grander in every way, than ever before shown. Ordinarily the number of characters introduced in a pageant is less than one hundred. In the Baltimore pageant there will be two hundred and thirty characters upon the floats, every costume entirely new and imported from Paris direct. It will require thirteen hundred men, two hundred and forty horses, over fifteen thousand gas jets, eight bands of music, and other accessories in like magnificence proportion. The actual cash outlay necessary to place the pageant upon the streets of Baltimore will exceed thirty-five thousand dollars. The characters are assumed exclusively by members of the Order of the Oriole, merchants and business men of the highest standing. The special series of excursions arranged with the Baltimore and Ohio are meeting with undisputed favor, as they are adept of visiting so many places of great interest in addition to the Oriole at Baltimore. As all the festivities in the Monumental City are at night, the days can be spent in visiting Washington, Old Point Comfort, Fortress Monroe, Luray Caves, Harper's Ferry, and very many other points. The rate is down to the very lowest notch, half-fare from all stations on the enormous system embraced within the city.

The entertainment brought out the best powers of Mr. Gardner as a German dialect comedian. He is unquestionably one of the best in this country, being a true representative of the Fritz school. His dialect is not only of the very best, but he is a pleasing tender, an excellent dancer, an accomplished comedian, and by his eccentricities and inimitable specialties, kept the audience in continued laughter.
